5 Things to be Included in a Research Proposal

Whether it's a research proposal for a Bachelor's study, a Master's study, or a Ph.D. project, they all have similar general steps and main components.

What is a research proposal?

Research proposal refers to proposing to do a research study. The reader is informed regarding what is the aspect of wanting to do that research. In research proposals, the answer to the question "what" is referred to, and "how" that question will be answered and researched is defined. It helps us to propose our ideas to the reader of the research, who will be approving our Objectives of Management too. This is the reason one needs to write a research proposal before doing a research study.
